Babcock hosting teach-in on Cavendish Nuclear business

Babcock International Group (Babcock), the defence company, will host a teach-in on its Cavendish Nuclear business for analysts and investors at 4pm today (UK time).

Through our Cavendish Nuclear business, which incorporates our civil nuclear activities, Babcock is embedded and involved in every stage of the nuclear lifecycle, from fuel routes, new build and future generation, generation support and decommissioning in the UK to international and defence services markets. This teach-in will aim to showcase our leading nuclear capabilities, the markets in which we operate and the growth opportunities ahead.

Currently representing 7% of the Group, Cavendish Nuclear delivered c.£320 million of revenue in FY25 (unaudited) and is expected to grow to c.£600 million in 2030, continuing its track record of double-digit growth and margins, with an exciting pipeline of opportunities over the medium and longer-term.

With opening remarks from our CEO, David Lockwood, our Nuclear CEO, Harry Holt, will be joined by Mick Gornall, Managing Director - Cavendish Nuclear and James Ewence, Director - Clean Energy - Cavendish Nuclear.

The event will be webcast live and subsequently available for replay. A transcript will also be available. To watch the webcast please visit: www.babcockinternational.com/investors/results-and-presentations/.

The presentation contains no inside information and there will be no updates on current trading provided.
